

PHOTOSTAT FACSIMILE

REPRODUCED FROM THE COPY IN THE

HENRY E. HUNTINGTON LIBRARY

FOR REFERENCE ONLY. NOT FOR REPRODUCTION

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA LOS ANGELES

AMMONLASSON N SHLHQMASOLSA YMAMALI

Turnigare, Thomas

and the said of a stance outed intet, incr occurring is ther if moder-Drittel -Classon copy

oke . June . 6

04-1-1

of lack like 1882 - 11 ty 12.0 C. Lewin Sept. 1882 - 11 ty 10.7.0

On Longram Bill. anglo-Post. 1.102

on 19 1 to grant Bill anglo-Post. 1.102 on 19 1 to grant to stand to the to the source of the

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2008 with funding from Microsoft Corporation

A MVSICALL
CONSORT OF HEA.

uenly harmonic (compounded out of manie parts of Musicke) called CHVRCHYARDS
CHARITIE.

Imprinted at London, by
Ar. H.u field, for Welliam
Holn. 5.

1595.

TO THE RIGHT HONORAble ROBERT DEVEREVX Earle of Essex and Ewe, Vicount of Hereford, Lord Ferrer of Chartley, Borcher and Louaine, Master of the Queenes Maiesties horse,— Knight of the noble order of the garter, and one of hir Maiesties honorable privine Counsell. Thomas Churchyard nusheth increase of all wished— honor, happines of life, worlds good— will, and everlasting fame.

Greater boldnes cannot be committed (Right Honorable) than to present Pamphlets and Poetrie to noble Counsellors that gouernes a publike state, though in all ages reasonable writers, that kept an orderly compasse, were suffered in verse or prose (so their inuentions were not farced sul of vanitie) to shew good will in the dedication of some honest labors, to such honorable personages, as was woorthie of any good volumes, or in the woorth of vertue, excelled the waight and value of numbers, that neither merits laudation, nor shew no sufficiency to be saluted with a booke. But what I see and the world reports of your Lordship, makes me somwhat hardie to offer a present, yet simplenes of spirit and want of profound learning, hath so muffled my muses, that they dare not speake, nor I prefume to write, neuertheles thinking on your twenty fold honorable father (my great good · Lord) matchlesse in our world, that caried in his breast the seare of God, and wan with his life the loue of men (so noble was his minde) I stood nothing discouraged, bicause a soldier like noble sonne of his is lest aliue, to follow the steps of so stately a father, and to shine about and beyond the course of thoufands in this time, or is likely to come after this age. To treate of particulars in that behalfe, I should presume too far, and vnaduisedly come too short of matter fit for this cause. Wherefore I am to leaue those deepe considerations, and drop into the shallownes of mine owne studies, that brings foorth a booke of the coldnes of charitie, bicause a great noble man, told me this last wet sommer, The weather was too colde for Poets: On which fauorable words, I bethought me that that charitie in court and all the world ouer, was become so cold, that neither hot sommer, feruent fire, nor heate of sunne could make warme againe, in that comfortable fort as our forefathers have felt it: fo my good L.following that onely theame of cold weather (being apt to take any theam) to write on, in as sweete a phrase and termes as I may deuise (putting in the praise of Poets withall) I smoothly passe ouer (without bitter speeches) the corruption of this world, and disguised maners of men, riding by the new fanglenes of a multitude, and not dashing any ones infirmitie, with blot of disgrace, or blemish of credit, hoping the best fort shall stand pleased with, howsoeuer the woorst (happily may be touched) do of meere malice, wrest awry the honest meaning of a plaine writer. For the dutifull regard, towards the purchasing of your L. fauor hath so fifted euery word and sentence, that no one verse or line shall bee offensive to a sounde iudgement and good construction. And sor that now (by reason of great age)my wits and inuentions are almost wearied with writing of

A 2

THE EPISTLE

DEDICATORIE.

THE EPISTLE, &c.

of bookes (this being one of the last) I rooke this taske in hand, at large to dilate somewhat, of Charitie, which would to God I had as great power to reuiue, as the world hath occasion to remember. Thus ouer-bold to trouble your L. so long with the reading of so simple an Epistle, I proceed vnder your honorable supportation, to my purposed matter, wishing your L. euerlasting same, credit, and honor, most humbly at commandement,

THOMAS CHURCHYARD.

AN EVERLASTING

MEMORIE OF CHRISTIAN

comfort to the Queenes most excellent Maiestie.

Orashous dame, in whose graue iudgment great The heavens hie, lies open plaine to sight The earth belowe, takes from thy regall feat (Indarkest daies) his hope and cleerest light. For arthy feet, a world of woorthies fall-ELIZABETH, amonarke to them all. An Empresse heere, three kingdoms showes vs plaine On which three realms, our Queen may rightly raine. Otreble Queen, the sweete and highest part That we like best, and shrillest voice doth sound The onely meane, to shew deepe musicks art Where all the skill; of well set song is found. Grantfilly man, a grace that meanes to fing Of heaunly loue, and of none other thing. He sings of peace, a song should lull asleepe The fellest feends, and fearfull bugs below Peace charms with words, the wolfe that wearies theep That neither lambe, nor kid aftraie shall goe. For as the hen, hir chickens keepes from kite So charitie, doth saue hir children all From common plagues, and wicked worlds despite And And all the wrath, that from the clouds can fall. She spreds hir wings, to keepe hir birds from cold And learns poore chicks, to picke vp graines of gold. This charitie, so checkles ore hir broode She scrapes the earth, to make hir yoong ones feed And freely from, hir selfe doth spare them soode She takes in hart, such care for those that neede. If charitie, were not the onely nurse To nourish vp, each thing that life doth beare This backward world, would grow from ill to woorfe And brutish tolke, would banish love and feare. Warme Christian loue, as long as life doth last Doth bide the shocke, and brunt of eurie blast. And kindled once, in any princely hart It burnes and flames, as hot as Æthna hill Creepes throw the vains, and nerues in euerie par Cannot be quencht, with water, witner skill. A heaunly grace, maintains a heaunly loue Each thing divine, divinely is set foorth Planted like rocke, that nothing may remoue Garnisht like gold, or perle of greatest woorth. The charitie, I meane is garded so And for hir faith, through fire and aire may goe. But what is that, to him that sings a song If twenty parts, when he one voice must found Presumes to tell, a tale perchance too long

To

To facred eares, whose judgement is profound Singhie or lowe, howere the tune he takes For one small iar, the song begins againe Nothiftmay serue, for concord musicke makes Most harmonic, consists in pricksong plaine. Diuision doth, but teare in peeces small The minnems long, and little crotchets all. Full foftly blowes, a quiet calmie winde A still milde voice, doth please the hearers well No note norring, so much contents the mind As solemne sound, of cleere sweet siluer bell. Othat my muse, might get so great a grace As credit win, throw any found it shoes I die to see, one fearfull frowne of face VVhere these meeke words, and humble verses goes. Now mirthles fong, begin thy new found note As strange a straine, as any eare hath hard If world would learne, to fing the same by rote Good charitie, should grow in more regard. Play well thy part, so shall the greatest simile And meanest sort, of force be pleased the while.

Your Maiesties most humble servant, _

Thomas Churchyard.

Which likes no tunes, but musick sweet & sound Weake were my muse, to offer sighes and teares Where ioy sull mirth, and gladnes doth abound But troubled mind, that rowles on restles ground In sorrow sings, the secrets of the hart Because sad man, can sing no sweeter part.

O charitie helpe.

Of charitie, that makes a folemne noies
A strange consort, I hope well tunde I bring
Of heavenlie love, that passeth earthlie Ioies
In formall wise, a true set song I sing
Would God the sound, through al the world might ring
That charitie, which ech one ought to keepe
Might waken now, that long hath laine a sleepe.
O charitie helpe.

Shee hath bin brought, in flumber fundrie waies
With lullabie, as nurse doth rocke hir childe
The cradle gaie, of pleasant nights and daies
With too much ease, hath charitie beguilde
And now God wot, the world is waxt so wilde
That charitie, must needs make ech thing tame
That wilde discord, hath brought cleane out of frame.
O charitie helpe.

Pity and ruth, are fled or banisht quite
And in their place, comes rigor rudelie cled
Godlie remorse, is drownd in worlds delite
Good conshence seares, that charitie is dead
Loue looketh downe, and hate holds vp the head
Troth barelie liues, and tretchrie thriues apace
Deserts doth starue, and meanewell hides his face.

O charitie help-

Franknes

Franknes is blinde, affection dims his fight Larges is loft, hardnes supplies his place Wrong runs so swift, it ouer-gallops right Goodnes limps downe, and halts in many a case Do well doth droupe, or walks with mussed face Vertue and vice, now wrastles for a fall And so the strong, will thrust the weake to wall. O charitie helpe.

Stoutnes with strength, strikes flat the feeble force
Downe is kept downe, and neuer like to rise
Malice and might, rides both vpon one horse
(Sir Packolets nagge, that gallops through the skies)
Iudgement growes grosse, ore weening wanteth eies
Will is a wagge, waste hath the wager woon
For all the date, of our redresses done.
O charitic helpe.

Loyaltie weeps, and flattrie laughes and smiles
Goodwill is scornd, and puts vp many a taunt
Pouertie is plagude, or ouermatcht with wiles
Plainnes complaines, but pride bids him auaunt
Crueltie the curre, with crie of hounds will chaunt
But bandog bites, sull fore before he barke
And craft the earle, still suggles in the darke.
O charitie helpe.

Friendship lookes pale, it hath an ague sit
Fauour is faint, and lame it cannot go
Finenes is false, and full of subtill wit
Faith gives faire words, and breaketh promis so
Constancie reeles, and staggers to and fro
Charitie must needs, reforme these follies strange
That by abuse, doth noble nature change.

O charitie helpe.

Dutie

Dutie doth die, to driue on diuelish drifts Stubbornes striues, to wrangle for a strawe Cunning long liues, by cusnage and by shifts Disorder thriues, with neither rule nor lawe People growes proud, without true feare or awe If suffrance see, these prancks and hold his peace Goodnes decaies, and badnes shall encrease.

O charitie helpe.

If charitie be, the foode or fruite of faith Where bloomes that tree, where doth those branches True charitie sure, as wisest people saith (bud Is working still, and ever dooing good Loue helpes our health, as life maintaines the blood But where no helpe, nor fuccour we may finde There charitie, is almost out of minde. O charitie helpe.

If through my faith, great mountaines I may moue And can raise vp, to life the dead from graue That withred faith, brings foorth no fruite of loue It gaines no grace, what ever hope I have If charitie be, the thing which good men craue God graunt that I, and all that heares the same May fing that fong, like Sidrack in the flame. O charitie helpe.

My humble hart, hopes now but for dispatch Of life that wastes, away like candle blase The clocke will stricke, in haste I heare the watch That founds the bell, whereon the people gase My forces faile, my wits are in a male My corps consumes, my skin and bones doth shew The foule is glad, the bodie hence shall go. O charitie helpe.

Truth

Truth waited long, on your sweete sacred raigne
To catch some crums, that from your table fals
I sowe in teares, and reaps but bitter paine
That makes sicke soule, lie groning by the wals
Where hands a crosse, for helpe to heaven cals
So sucks vp sighes, and sorrow of the minde
As boyling brest, blowes fast for aire and winde.
O charitie helpe.

My muse doth muse, how labour lost his time
And service great, doth get so small regarde
I never thrivde, by prose nor pleasant rime
Nor could in world, be any way presard
An open signe, my thankles hap is hard
Yet numbers of, my verie name and race
By prince in court, were cald to woorthie place.
O charitie helpe,

I am the Drone, that bees beats from the hive The vglie Oule, that kites and crowes do hate The drawing oxe, that clounes do daily drive The haples hinde, that hath the hatefull fate (That weares ail futes, and feafons our of date) If destroy fo, alots men such hard chance They passe the pikes, that fortune will advance. O charitie helpe.

My passage is, like one that rides in post
Through water, site, and all the hazards heere
And so draws home, a weary grisly ghost
Whose losse of youth, butes loathsome age too deere
Now coms account, of daies, of houres and yeere
My debts are stald, as oft bare bankrouts be
The graue paies all, and sets my bondage free.
O charitie helpe.

The

The wo of wars, and pride and pompe of peace The toile of world, and troubles here and there And churlish checks, of fortune I release Their heauie crosse, I can no longer beare In peaces small, my scribbled scrowles I teare So slinging verse, and bookes before your feet I craue some crownes, to bie my shrouding sheet.

O charitie helpe.

All hope is gone, of any earthly hap
The axe is come, to give the falling blow
Downe flies the bowes, the tree hath lost his sap
Vp to the clouds, like smoke the breath shall go
A sillie puffe, of winde ends all this wo
O grashous Queene, then some compassion take
Before my soule, this combrous caue for sake.
O charitie helpe.

If nothing come, of service, sute and troth
True man must trudge, and leave his native soile
Abroad the world, to see how fortune goth
In any place, where faith is free from soyle
Heere with vaine hope, my selfe and life I spoile
First lost my youth, so time and all is gone
Age sindes no friends, nor helpe of any one.
O charitie helpe.

Of charitie, a great discourse is made
Vnto an Earle, I honor in this land
It is not hid, nor sits in silent shade
Would God it were, in your faire blessed hand
There lies the notes, as thicke as is the sand
And there I sing, three parts in one at lest
And in sweete sound, true musicke is express.
O charitie helpe, or else adue the pen
For I must march, againe with marshall men.

To the generall Readers.

Fought amisse, you sinde good Reader heere, His fault it is, that sings ne sweete nor loud: When he caught cold, and voice could not be cleere, Because ech note, is cloked under cloud, He craud no belpe, nor stole from no mans sono, One peece nor part, of musicke any waie: Ne sembreeffe, breefe, nor yet ne larke nor long, For he hash skill, in deskant some men faie, And on the base, can make three parts in one, And set new songs, when all the old are gone. Though some beleeve, but bardly that he makes, These things or that, which seemes far past his reach, Tush though old head, and hand with paulsie shakes, Let no ill will, plaine writers pen appeach: If you do loue, no wrong give ech man right: Rob not the just, of any praise well won, Way not mens worth, with waights in ballance light, For truth is truth, when all is faide and don: You may as well, fay white and red is blacke, And Sun and Moone, are steele and marble stone: As Suy or thinke; behinde a writers backe, He borrowed that, which he claimes as his owne: O giue men leaue, to father their owne childe: Let it be foule, or faire as babies are, Astubborne boye, a cracke-rope tame or wilde, Begos in baste, and broughs uppoore and bare: Howere they be, blinde, lame, or shapt avrie, Vele to fight, bigge, boulchons lowe or bie, Those younglings all, the Dad can not denie, Are his that fent, those babes abroad to nurse, (Like orphants weake, that knowes not what to do) With bleffings great, and not with parents curse, That shortens life, and gets Gods anger to: Children were woont, so beare their fathers name, Net one durst say, in earnest iest or skorne,

To the generall Readers.

(To hinder childe, of spotlesse birth and fame)
Alawfull sonne, was but a bastard horne.
Both beast and bird, their young ones do defend,
So shall my Muse, maintaine that I have pend,
Then bring Shores wife, in question now no more,
I set hir foorth, in colours as she goes,

Sir Rafe Bowser a worshipfull knight witneffeth where and when I penned that.

And as she went, like gallant lasse before, So other gyrls, as gaie and fresh as rose, With verse have I, set foorth in sundrie forts, As braue as she, what ere disdaine reports, That humor now, declines for age drawes on, The full tide is, of fine invention gon: Ebbe followes floud, when vitall vaines waxe dead, Wit weares and wastes, as torch consumes with winde, When water turnes, driegrowes a flowing head: In age ech thing, decaies by course of kinde: Yet whiles the oyle, in lampe may make a blaze, Or candell in, the socket shewes a light, On sparkling flame, the cleerest eies will gaze, And comfort finde, thereby indarkest night: I yeeld to time, that like a sitbe cuts cleane, All that doth grow, in spring or fall of leafe, And wish in world, my treble were a meane, That I might fine, to eares that are not deafe, Anote should sinke, as deepe in ingging brest, As eneryet, in seadid ancher rest: Songs are but like, as fancies gives them leave, Both well and sk, as founds of trampets are, Though Syrens voice, the hearers doth deceaue, Mine hath no charme, but open plaine and bare, As I was borne, so speake I English still, To lose my paines, and win the worlds good will, No losse somuch, as credit cracks with pen, Nor gaine so great, as lone of honest men. Fare you well.

The Author to his booke.

Onow plaine booke, where show maist welcom find, Walke throw the world, till frinds do thee embrace: Let foes alone, obay thy masters mind, For fear nor threat, hide not a fautlesse face. Win courts good will, the countries love is gaind, With wife men stay, from froward wits beware: At plow and cart, plaine speech is not disdaind: Sit downe with those, that feeds on hungrie fare, For they have time, to note what thou dost faie, Let gallants go, they will but gine a gibe: Or take thee up, and fling thee straight awaie, Touch not smooth hands, that we to take a bribe, They better like, full bags than busie bookes, Shun from the light, of glorious peacocks proud: Their onlie pomp, stands all on statelie lookes, They glowm and skoull, as sweare a raynic cloud. Gine babling toongs, good leave to taunt and talke, Their taste is gone, they oft take chese for chalke. Bid scornfull heads, let true-plaine lines alone, That harmles are, and came from lowlie hart: Passe not in haste, to people strange unknowne, Least indyment swift, do take on thee the start. Andrun beyond, thy reach full many a skore, Go flowlie foorth, with thanks come quickly bome: Bring no rebuke, for that nips near and fore, Twere better far, abroad thou (houldst not rome. Though thou be blind, yet those that well can see, If thou offend, will find great fault with mee. Behaue thy selfe, as mildly as thou maist, Like messenger, that doth his arnd aright: Thy master must, affirme each thing thou saift. The darkest word, at length must come to light, Like pilerim go, and passe throw perils all, Take well in worsh, what bap doth shee befall.

Returne

The Author to his booke.

Returne no more, to me till newes thou bring, Ofpraise or thankes, or of some better thing: If none of these, this waiward world will yeeld, Trudge from fine towne, flie to the open feild, Where thou must passe, through thickets full of thorns, Where pricking briers, and croked brambles grose: And neuer none, scapt free from scaeth or scornes, Or scratted hands, or tearing of his close. Where eluish apes, and marmsets mockes and mose, And thistles are, seen sooner than a rose. Yea thou shalt come, where nettles are good store, Whose angrie sting, will blisters raise apace, Slep from those weedes, and come near them no more: For fear unwares, good words do get disgrace. The goodle floures, of court thou needs not feare, For they are sweete, and meeke of nature throw, There wisedome will, with writers humor beare: If humbly stil, thou canst behave thee now, Thy masters pen, bath purchast fanour there, Among the Dames, of faire Dianas traine, Where beautie shines, like silver drops of raine. In sunnie day: O booke thou happy art If with those Nimphes, thou maist be entertained, If any one, of them take in good part, A verse or word, thou hast a garland gaind, Ofglorie great, for fame bir selfe must found, Out of their voice, looke what they do pronounce: Like tennis ball, aloft it doth rebound, And yeelds great weight, but not by dram nor ounce, But heanie as, a massie pound of lead, They wey mens worth, with praises quicke or dead. Year what they say, of Poets fond or mise, Of prose or verse, that ripe innenshon shoes: As twere a lawe, the fame thereof shall rife, And through the world, like coin it current goes.

The Author to his booke.

From hand to hand, and so doth passage take, Prease thou to them, for they may mend my bap : If that of thee, some good account they make, And that in sport, they laie thee in their lap, Untill they lift, to read thee enrie line, Then at welhead, some water drawe. I may: For fountaine springs, may run cleere claret wine, Whose pleasant sap, gives moisture eurie way. The nimble Nimphs, that with Diana dwell, Can quicklie turne, the cock and flowing spout: That thousands shall, bring buckets to the well And watch their times, till comfort commeth out. Now booke trudge hence, bestow thy labour right Set spurs to horse, that flies in aeir with wings Mount ore the hils, and rest ne day nor night Till thou do come, before great Queens and Kings Then flat on face, fall prostrate at their feet That may from grave, call up thy masters spreet Keepe thou these rules, this course and compasse hold Somay thy grace, connert my lead to gold.

CHVRCHYARDES CHARITIE.

Hen labring minde, and weary body both Is cloid with world, & hart wold shake off toile Before the ghost, to highest heauens goeth and death of life, shall make a wretched spoile (And man must needs, for sake this soath some soile) He takes some care, to make his conshence cleere Of all he thinks, or may imagine heere.

A well disposed minde, cals many good things to memorie.

First lookes he vp, where soule desires to be Of life to come, to know what hope we have And where we rest, in ioie from bondage free So so so ne as cold, dead bodie lies in grave Than ere man leaves, this cruell cumbrous cave In charitie, he waies this world aright As far as wades, wise iudgement, skill and sight.

Good men haue many fiveet imaguations.

But finding world, full fraught with fond defires
(A mightie masse, of matter therein lies)
That burns outtime, and kindleth many fires
Whereon soule flames, and smothring smoke doth rise,
He lookes thereon, with heavie rusull eies,
As though some zeale, might moone a musing minde
To pity plagues, that man must leave behinde.

Blinde world is fraught with fond defires

Who

Churchyards Charitie.

The poore efface of people is so be pitted.

2

Who doth not figh, to fee the poore opprest By rich mens reach, that wrests awry the right Who will not waile, the woe of troubled brest Orforelament, the state of wronged wight When broad day brings, darke dealings vnto light Who will not rue, our wretched race on earth That keepes till death, no rule from day of birth.

ly won is easilie left.

The wealth hard- The goods we win, are woorse to keepe than get The wealth we lose, robs some of rest and sleepe Our daily gaine, will answere scarce our det We couet more, than wit can warely keepe We slip from hence, as rich as new shorne sheepe And that we leave, in world that well was won Is soone consumde, and spent with riotous son. in Graceles time runs on towling mheeles.

Who parts from world, would wish that were not so His charitie, commands him so to thinke But graceles time, on rowling wheeles doth go At whose abuse, our flyring world can winke Vice cares no whit, if vertue swim or sinke Ambishous mind, and malice meetes in one So that true loue, and charitie is gone.

Christian loue lookes to eueric thing.

Loue bids men looke, to all things vnder Sun Beast fish, and foule, and all we see with eie But charitie, agreater course doth run Because it doth, in quiet conscience lie She lookes ech where, as she had wings to flie And houer ore, our doings on this mould That bridle takes, and will not be contrould.

O then to love, and charitie I pas
Whose zeale is great, and charge is nothing small
That electely sees, (as in a christall glas)
The spots of face, and inward cankers all
And can in haste, vnto remembrance call
Old farn yeers past, and present things of late,
Whereof a world, of wits may well debate.

Zeale is the glas that shewes the spots of face.

Who can hold toong, to see bad worlds abuce Run ore the brim, where vertue neuer floes As hauocke had, hald vp the water fluce Where out at large, great skuls of fishes goes Poore pashence must, be pleased with painted shoes Alms deeds are dead, no pitty now is last For all the world, is set on sleight and crast.

Abuse runs ouer

If pouertie, be pincht with plague or fore He starues for food, adue the man is dead The sound we seeke, the sicke we do abore Full paunch cats all, the hungrie is not fed For greedy guts, keeps needy mouth from bred True charitie, and good deuoshon old By frost and snow, are almost kild with cold.

Full paunch cats

Would God good works, with faithfull honest deeds Reformd this vice, that spreds too far I feare And faire sweete flowrs, were planted for those weeds That doth with fraud, insect sweet soyles ech where Fine words doth but, betraie the simple care As sowlers pipe, the harmles bird disseaues That lights on lyme, amid greene birchen leaves.

Faire wordes make looles faire.

Churchyards Charitie.

millions of men.

If meere deceit, were banisht from our viewe Deceir deceaues False dealing then, would bluth to shew his face If wisdome did, disdaine vaine follies newe Old troth in world, would claime his woonted place But cuming wits, doth finenes to embrace That plainnes walkes, like pilgrim to and fro In wandring wife, and knowes not where to go.

Wealthsthieft

Wealth hath desire, to drinke great rivers drie drinks rivers dry. His scalding thirst, cannot be quenched well Want pines awaie, and comfortles doth lie And water tafts, like Tantalus in hell The needy fort, in dolour daily dwell The hautie head, thinks skorne to turne his face And rue the state, of naked wretches case.

A fauing world spares nothing to the poore.

The fields and lanes, are full of sicke and lame, Who beg and craue, as loud as voice can crie But fauing world, is grown so far from frame No great remorfe, remains in passers by Hardnes holds backe, both bag and bounties eie So that no ruth, regard nor pittie comes From sparing hands, and graceles griping thombs.

Prifoners perifh fort.

Our prisons all, are pestred with poore soules Whose yelling noise, a tyrants hart may mooue At grates they stand, and looke through peeping holes To purchase alms, and trie good peoples loue for want of com- But penurie, doth so their pashence prooue, With emptie wombe, and hungrie meatles mawe They lay them downe, on boords or wads of strawe.

The

Churchyards Charitie.

Many filly foules goes a hungrie to

The filly folke, in towne or cottage rude
With belly full, do feldome go to bed
And lookes as leane, as haukes that ill are mude
Which often be, with crowes or carraine fed
How should men giue, when charitie is dead
For money, meat, and clothing now is bard
From those that need, the world is waxt so hard.

Full purfe follows many pleasures.

How can full purse, supplie the poore mans went When trull at home, from sheepe lookes for a sleece And master must, be sometimes all a flant And prettie pus, my decre must have a peece Whose beautie staines, the saire Helen of Greece These things are large, and long to looke vpon By which cold cause, warme charitie is gon.

> The purchesars plucks all from the poore.

More reasons rise, to make men hold and keepe The crums they catch, from Fortunes table still For purchesars, do walke when plow men sleepe Their sacks of corne, is seldome from the mill They take no rest, till thrist bare budget sill Then locke they vp, in chest their golden bags When beggers trudge, and iet about in rags.

Cenfrie earchers

Cold parts men plaie, much like old plain bopeepe Or counterfait, in dock out-nettle still And for their gaine, there is such hold and keepe That nothing can, escape their reaching skill Much haue yee won, when got is their good will Tis lost againe, for one small graine of gold Their charitie, is growne so extreme cold. Cunning raifeth the price of cuery thing.

They raise the price, of every thing is bought On tenter hookes, their ware is stretched out Seekes all the waies, for wealth that may be fought As for the winde, a ship is swaid about And at a trice, they turne the water spout So from our purie, both pence and pounds they draw By hooke or crooke, by wrest or reach of law.

Virtles made deere seldome comes downe againe,

The rate of things, rackt vp doth fall no more Colde conshence takes, all fish that coms to net To make corne deere, they hoord much graine in store So they may win, some care not how they get For eury bird, they do such lime-twigs set That no bird scapes, if it be flidge to flie Except forelight, the suddaine danger spie.

Wicke I wolues denoures the lambs.

No rain nor curb, nor bridle holds them in No lawe norrule, nor order will they keepe Sets all abroch, to feede and nourish sin And plaies the wolves, with lambs when yonglings fleep Makes old folks whine, and babes in cradle weepe And makes the rate, of eury thing so scant That some cries out, that neuer thought of want.

destroies thoufands.

Adjuelish dearth A diuelish dearth, is come from darke hell gate To kill cold harts, as hands can crush a crab That blow fals not, vpon the proud mans pate But gives the meeke, and mildest minde the stab Now tell I all, the secrets like a blab As good to shew, a fore whiles wound is greene As let men starue, before the greefe be seene.

The

Churchyards Charitie.

7

The love of wealth, forgets both God and man And who growes rich, fets little by renowne To catch and hold, the world doth what it can With endles care, in court, in field and towne Craft keepeth vp, plaine honestie fals downe Charitie is dead, and goodnes growes full sicke Wisedome doth drowp, and follie is too quicke. The loue of wealth forgets all goodnes.

Wealth like a worme, eats vp sweete kernels all As cankers rust, runs into iron and steele Hard closed hands, that will let nothing fall Wants eares to heare, yet singers hath to seele Well all is right, when world runs like a wheele Round as a top, that scourging can abide Swims vp and downe, and followes time and tide.

Hard hands will part from nothing.

On present time and muck mans mind is bent
On world to come, no care nor eie they cast
What coms with ease, is often rashlie spent
And what doth hap, in hands we hold full fast
As though our pomp, and pride should alwaies last
Yea thinking all, is ours that we can scrape
And still for more, do greedie gluttons gape.

Foolish world thinks but one present time.

The many yeers, and winters past and gone
Hath changde the kind, of grace and goodnes quite
Our bodies beares, in sless hart of stone
That ioined is, with faintie liver white
Which never breeds, in breast one good delite
Our noughtie minds, may be the cause of this
That hath transformd, all Adams babes amisse.

Many yeers and maners alters the kinde of man.

The

A golden age is turnd to copper and braffe. The golden age, of our forefathers wife, Is copper now, or worse than any brasse, We quickly can, clap on a new found gife. And weare a maske, seeme shadow in a glasse. But bring no worke, nor great good thing to passe. Make shew of much, as art fets trisses forth. That proues a pusse, in substance little worth.

Words is the worlt ware that euer was fold.

Words are the ware, that each man fets to sale With phrases sine, bedeckt to blinde poore sight Faire promise sirst, steps forth and tels a tale Of bad deuice, that weies in ballance light For at your need, performance taketh flight And leaves in lake, the soole that words hath won Who paies great paines, for shadowes in the sun.

erealth weighs downe cuery thing. Wit did prefer, good people well of yore
Welth now with weights, doth wey the ballance down
Words and fine talke, leads world the dance before
But neither wealth, nor words wins true renown
For when the trumpe, doth give vncertaine fown
Men will not then, prepare them for the fight
But rather feeke, to faue themselves by flight.

Words are waves toffed with wind. Words are the waves, that welters on the feas
And works a froth, in colour white as snoe
Makes thousands sicke, and breedes a cold disease
To those that with, such swelling surges goe
Inconstant words, with tide will ebbe and sloe
But fruitfull deeds, stands firme and fast as rocke
That bides the brunt, of euric blast and shocke

Fine

Fine Macheuill, is now from Florence flown To England where, his welcome is too great, His bufie books, are heere fored and known That charitie, thereby hath lost hir heat Poore prisners doe, in Ludgate die for meat Who doth for det, in danger long remaine Must fall down flat, and seldom rise againe.

Marcheuill is now made an English man.

Want of charitie hath made me loofemy pattent.

Wittakes his toll, as milner at the mill Powlfeakes the bags, of meale as he doth pleafe Thrusts thousands backe, till tricksie tanker fill Like prentife fine, that faine would take some ease In deed there is, no fishing to the seas But what is caught, in conshence should be fold In market place, that men might credit hold. The milner will be fure of his toule.

No charitie, is found when fisher feeds
On all himselfe, and gives his fellowes none
Alas poore soules, we angle in the reeds
And catch a frog, when all the fish is gone
Bullhead and loch, lies under little stone
But stones and sticks, will breake our nets I dout
Before we bring, a dish of gudgins out.

A fine fifter would catch all himfelte.

The great good turnes, in court that thousands selt Is turnd to cleer, faire holie water there. The scraps are small, that hungrie hands have delt. Spoile cannot spare, the paring of a peare. For snatch crustrobs, almes baskets eury where. The poore so starnes, or knowes not what to do Andso I seare, shall silie suters to.

Good tumes are tum-leo faire belywater.

The

Churchyards Charitie.

The father will Scarle speake for his fonne.

10

The father scarse, will speake for his owne son World waxerh mute, when men should do some good The streame is stopt, where water ought to run We cast our nets, where fish creepes in the mind And clime those trees, where bowes will neuer bud We take great paine, yet no good fruit enioies For words are wind, and fils our eares with noies.

The foldier confumes himielte with griefe

The soldier sits, and sighes to shake off greefe Whose wounds in war, of right claimes great reward Wairs hard at heele, but findeth small releefe Who least deserues, is alwaies most prefard Who brags and boafts, blind world doth best regard But some that lost, their blood in countries right May kisse the post, and bid vs all good night.

Alip wife world cares little for a man.

What charitie, is that judge you that can Who sees these things, so far past all redresse When lip-wise world, sets little by a man What may fall out, of that a foole may geffe Each one shall have, his lot year more or lesse But charitie, and fortune differ far Between them two, we find a mortall war.

time dafer far.

The one helps all, and loves a number still Charitie and for. The other hurts, or else prefers a few And wife men find, no hold in hir good will For theis cald, a most inconstant shrew That with the fun, will waste away like dew A sommer flowre, that withers in the frost Coms softly on, and rides away in post.

As blind of fight, as ener Cupid was
For she lookes not, on vertue any way
Nor wisdoms worth, but fauors many an affe
For his smooth face, and peacocks feathers gay
But charitie is, the only staffe and stay
To all estates, for where the stoutly stands
She sets all free, and breaketh bondage bands.

Fortune fauors many an affe.

Forgiues great faults, and suffers many a wrong She gives a badge, that eury christian weares And in all worlds, hir livrey lasteth long It garded is, all round about with teares And she hir selfe, a branch of olive beares In signe of peace, and mercie mixt with grace That pitie takes, of curie rufull case.

Charitie forgiues and forgets iniuries.

This charitie gines, as much as men may craue
And soone forgets, the bountie she bestowes
Takes great delight, the life of man to saue
By vertue of, good turnes that from hir sloes
Whose is sent like, the white and sweet red rose
For all hir gifts, and graces beares such flowres
That makes poore men, to laugh when fortune lowres.

Chatitie hath no end of hir bour-

On charitie, the hungrie dailie feeds
As lambs and sheepe, in fruitfull pasture line
Shee gives few words, where shee bestoes good deeds
The more we neede, the sooner will shee give
As corne from chaffe, is sifted through the sue
So shee tries out, from dast and drosse the gold
As wisdome doth, the worth of men ynfold.

Charitic giues few words but doth many good deeds.

This

Charine is the beb.effed.

This charitie, is first that fauour findes fiel and lat that! And shall be last, that wins our worlds good will Begot by grace, and nurst in noble mindes That staies and stands, vpon their honor still Tis seen far off, as torch is on an hill Felt near at hand, and found out by the light Which in darke daies, doth glad ech good mans sight.

> When fortunes wrath, hath wounded many a wight She brings a boxe, of balm to heale ech fore That makes fad mind, and heavie hart so light It neuer thinks, on wretched chance no more If charitie, like victor goes before Come after hir, proud world with all thy braues Like conqueror, the triumphs on hir flaues.

Charitie conquers cuery where like a vidor.

> But well awaie, and woe God wor the while True charitie, is faintly felt or found Shee is of late, halfe-driven in exile Because hadlife, lets crueltie abound The world is full, of hollow harts vnfound And mercie meets, with ruth scarce once a yeere For rigors rage, doth show such churlish cheere.

Bad life would drive charitie in exile.

Men go transfor- Men walke abroad, transformd in fundry shapes med now a dais. More monster like, than babes of Adams brood Fearfull to fight, like viglie owls and apes That hath of kind, no civill humane mood Tigers in proofe, nurst vp with woluith food For sillie lambs, that doth no butcher fear They do denour, and in small peeces tear.

Greedie

Greedy as guls, and gapes for garbedge still,

Rauening like woolues, that murthers sheepe in folde as greedy as guls.

Suttle as foxe, that neuer hath his fill

Hedstrong and proud, and will not be controld

Currish as kite, ne gentle yoong nor old

Such cruell tricks, doth alter so mans minde

That long they line, by crast and dies ynkind.

Quarrels encrease, and combats have no end Till bloud be shed, and life and land be lost Some thinks the bow, were better breake than bend On that consait, stands mightie manhood most But charitie, rides then away in post And leaves in lash, behinde hir in some part A heape of harmes, and many a heavie hart.

Quartels breeds mischiete and bloudshed

Lust lives by spoyle, like theefe that robs true men Desires to eate, the hen and chickens all Ravine and rage, provide fast for profite then So gets some cheate, though it be near so small But lust is like, an image on a wall Strike out the cole, that is but blacke of hue Faire white and cleane, appears blurd wall to you.

Lust is a theese and robs vs of luse.

Ore weening runs, beyond the course of wit Presumpshon then, doth set best soote before And boldnes knowes, not where to stand nor sit His lottie lookes, proubles his pride so fore But when threed-bare, his bad spun cloth is wore The world but laughs, to see bald bayard blinde With painted robes, patch up a stately minde.

 Pride and prefumption is bold as blinde bayard,

14 Churchyards Charitie.

New fanglenes is cafily found one. In cloud vnseene, new sanglenes would walke
But he is spide, by old deepe ferching sight
Fine filed toongs, like parrets prate and talke
And wondermakes, of trisling matters light
This glorious crew, triumphes in moone thme night
But when cleere day, such idols doth disclose
World will point out, where eurie shadow goes.

Wilful heads hates good counfell. Wilde wilfull heads, rhat all found counsell hates A careles course, of borrowed life doth lead Whose retchles race, still argues and debates They soone forget, good lessons that they read But when the soot, awrie the shue doth tread Downe goes the heele, yea seam the sole and all And so vnwares, a man in mire may fall.

Ill custome Breedes abuse. And stumbling oft, makes some to snapper still Vse mastrie breedes, and custome pleads a law Let bridle goe, the horse will have his will Much water scarse, will quench hot fire in straw A stubborne childe, that still doth backward draw Must needes be whipt, to make him seare the rod So we are plagud, when we forget our God.

Two plagues past threatens a third.

Three sundrie plagues, the wrath of God doth show
The first is past, the second you may see
The third ye wot, the world too well doth know
For that cuts downe, corne, graffe, and highest tree
The angrie cloudes will neuer calmie bee
Till better life, sea se all our showres of raine
And Gods great grace, brings sommer home againe
Shame

Shame followes pride, and death comes after fin Then famine kils, vp thousands where it flies They will take heed, that hath well scourged bin And fall to mend, their liues if they be wise But in our world, such new found fashons rise All frames not well, looke into ech mans waies Small charitie, is seen in these bad daies.

Shame followes pride, and dearth nipped fore.

When charitie, proud painted posts plucks downe To God and prince, great honor shall arise When plainnes thriues, in court and ciuill towne Old troth will bid, farewell our newfound gise Goodnes will come, and so aduance the wise Dunses and dolts, shall stand beneath the bar And pride shall blush, that doth presume too far.

Proud painted posts are rotten in the middle.

The least of most, makes most of his bad stuffe So leers and looks, as frighted were his wits Is neuer well, till pride be in his ruffe Than monarkelike, on lostie seathe sits (Whose scornfull hart, is full of froward sits) But speaks no word, for seare that bayard blinde Should plunge before, and yearke at him behinde.

Pride alubberly lout, lookes like a monarke.

The woorst with best, compares and striues for place As gold and glas, in woorth weare all alike Beares out his brags, with scowling brazen face That cannot blush, no more than can blacke tike He frowns so fore, he lookes as he would strike The crabbish earle, so curst and cumbrous is Then when he speakes, in schoole the schollers hisse.

The woorst with hie hart, compares with the best.

2 The

A furly fire fively like a a toad.

The furly fire, fits swelling like a toad That venom casts, on goodly herbs and floures Not pleased well, in house nor yet abroad Nor seemes to haue, ne quiet daies nor houres When cheerefull folke, doth smile this churle he loures A swarme of such, checkmates a man may see If stagers come, where fresh fine fellowes bee.

A stately stalke thinks none like himfelfe,

The stately stalks, that will ne stoop nor bend Will speake no word, till first yee them salute Holdshead aloft, but downe no looke will lend Faire blossomd trees, that brings foorth no good fruit Nay fickles sharpe, that reaps vp many a fute Their haruest hath, cut downe the corne so cleane They leave in field, the poore no graine to gleane.

A craftie crue are willer than the foxe.

The craftie crue, more wily than old Foxe Runs flocking on, as sheepe to fold doth flie Takes what they may, and gives but scornes & mocks They want no wiles, within the winde to lie Drains rivers vp, and drinks great fountaines drie At first rebound, strikes backe the tennis ball (From those that plaies) as though they would have at.

is quicke as a ice.

Junning lads are The cunning lads, that creepes through auger holes As quicke as Bee, feekes honie eury where Feeds body far, but cares not for their foles Their fnatching shewes, what greedy minds they beare Who lends the poore, nelouing looke nor eare Brings emptie paunch, to mouth vp all alone Skornes and disdaine, to sling a dog a bone. Preferments Preferments were, the marks whereat we shot But past our aime; and reach those marks do stand For ere we draw, the bow the game is got Or else the string, doth breake within our hand Our plaine prick-shafts, were wont to cleaue a wand But now so blunt, and statche heads are worne When archer shoots, leud world laughs him to scorne.

Preferments are not got with shooting too short.

They hit the white, that never shot before
No marke men sure, nay bunglars in their kind
A sort of swads, that scarce can shoot twelve score
Nor hath no skill, to know where blowes the winde
Lo thus you see, that fortune is but blinde
To give them hap, whose knowledge is so bace
They scarce deserve, a simple pedlars place.

They hit the white that have good hap.

Ech man prefers, his friends and servants both
The Queenes poore men, findes few to help their hap
I praie you who, doth speake for plaine Tom-troth
Which plies them all, with curchie, knee and cap
His old crab tree, is burnd with thunder clap
Blacke are the bowes, that once grew greene and gaie
The rune of time, doth threaten his decaie.

Ech man prefers his feruauts and friends.

How should men live, that have no chinks to spend Steele now lacks strength, to strike out fire from flint Holdfast the gnoss, will neither give nor lend Hope-well can get, no money from the mint All things we have, are set now at a stint Nip-crust the carle, bath crept so neere the crums That nothing scapes, from hungrie hucksters thumbs.

Hope well can get no money from the mint. Senie long spends much and gets little.

Serue long waite well, spend much and little get
May be compard, to walking horse for nought
Brings many men, in danger and in det
For wit and time, thereby is deerlie bought
As when a drudge, all daie hath trulie wrought
And goes to bed, vnpleasd or paid aright
He thinks daies toile, brings beggrie home at night.

Who makes hafte to amend any miffe. I pray you who, makes haste to mend this misse. The man in the moone, as soone as any one. By which cold signe, true loue and charities. Growne now more cold, than ice or marble stone. As dogs do striue, and snarre about a bone. So for good turnes, the people throng and thrust So thicke God wot, we know not who to trust.

New natures alters good old conditions. These natures new, doth argue plagues most strange To come is now, No samine heere were had For as we do, our old good maners change So world I feare, hence foorth will be too bad When sober men, growes sauage wilde and mad Looke for small rule, and order heere belowe Our Judgement daie, thereby drawes neere I trowe.

Not one doth right, search and you shall see.

Not one doth right, with weights when we are waid All are as light, in ballance as a flie
For out of frame. are all when all is faid
Both they below, and those that would sit hie
But chieflie such, as vie to sell and bie
All sciences, yea all of eury art
Are stept on stage, and come to play their part.

Search

Search eury art, artificers and all
In charitie, behold them as they are
And you shall see, their conshence is so small
That nere a one, for charitie doth care
Do neither church, queer, court, nor country spare
And tell me plaine, what charitie is there
God grant these daies, true loue be any where.

Artificers and all are light in the ballance.

Can plagues cease then, whan eury living wight His neighbour plagues, as far as powre may stretch In ballance iust, not one man waies aright All vse desait, and ly on gard and watch He lives not now, that can not scrat and snatch Men are no faints, world is a world to thend So folly doth, his wilful faults defend.

Plagues will not ceale till bad life be reformed

The man of Ind, can neuer change his skin Nor yet the cat, of mountaine change hir hue So those wilde buds, that euer bad haue bin Can neuer beare, good fruit nor blossome nue A bitter taste, will neuer go from rue A wicked life, can shew no vertous deed No more than may, a sloure spring from a weed.

Wild buds brings foorth no good fruit

What keepes good course, the weather alters oft The heavens seeme, to shew some sodaine change The winds waxe shrill, and loud they blow alost Familiar friends, for trifles gro full strange Wit waxeth wilde, whose wont was not to range So out of tune, ech thing is wrested now Because abuse, corrupts good nature throw.

Neither world nor weather keeps good course. If fommer once, in twentie yeers growes hot (Whose warmth reuiues, both fruit & sloures ech where) Cold winters blast, bites near the bones ye wot Cold pleaseth sew, for cold ech one doth seare Why world growes cold, and cold is hard to beare Cold weather makes, warme conshence cold I troe So charitie, and goodnes cold doth growe.

Neither would nor weather keeps good courfe.

world pleafeth none.

Cold weather or Cold is the aire, the open field and towne Then court must needs, wax colder than it was It seems wise world, cares not for vaine renowne As world doth come, a Gods name let it passe Though charitie, growe thrife as cold as glaffe A warmer time, in better tune may bring This hard cold age, when comes a sommer spring.

Cold aire kils sometime found and ficke.

Cold snow is not, so good as luke warme milke Hot sun doth melt, cold frost and cakes of ice Thicke frise surmounts, a thin cloke linde with silke Furde gowne exceeds, cold cloth of preshous price Warmeloue lasts long, cold fauour growes full nice With warme good will, we win great wordlie good The fire burns best, where most ye clap on wood.

lic takes leane.

Cold Innequick-Both flame and fire, goes out in weather cold Where neither coles, nor wood mantaines the heat And heat is that, contents both yoong and old For in the same, our sweete delight is great Most men feeds best, with good warme drinke or meat Cold breeds worst blod, and hardlie doth digest Bicause cold things, lies belching long in brest.

Cold

Cold fortune kils, the strongest man that lines Cold countriance cuts, the throte ere we be ware Cold possion. onke, a quicke dispatch it gives Cold crawps dries up, the sences where they are Cold lims waxe lame, and breeds diseases rare Thus cold mars all, then warmth God send us now That eurie part, of man seele comfort throw. Cold fortune kils

Cold food is faint, vnto weake stomacks still Warme broths keeps health, in perfect sound estate
Warme daies we wish, cold bitter aire is ill
Cold blasts be nought, sharpe blustring storms we hate
Sweetly sun shines, in world earlie or late
Cold quicklie caught, goes seldome soone away
And long cold nights, kils some before the day.

Cold foode is comfordes and hard to digett.

Cold drie hard frost, makes thousands seeke for fire Warme meate gives spreet, to either sicke or sound Cold hungrie baites, makes many a horse to tire Warme clouts and clothes, doth comfort eurie wound horse. No fruit thrines well, where cold doth much abound The warmth doth ioy, both spring and fall of lease Makes dead things quicke, delights both dum & dease

Coldhungrie ba tes may kill a horfe.

Yea blind and lame, and all that life doth beare
Are glad of heate, then cold is out of grace
Cold words God wot, when meaning scarce is there
Kils many a man, in court or any place
O wold to God, warme deeds did show his face
That charitie, hir whole essee may thow
On those that needs, which knows not where to goe

Coldwords makes a man delperate.

Churchy ards Charitie.

A colder scason in all fores was neverfeene.

A colder time, in world was neuer seene The skies dolowre, the fun and moone waxe dim Sommer scarce knowne, but that the leaves are greene The winters waste, drives water ore the brim Vpon the land, great flotes of wood may swim Nature thinks scorne, to do hir dutie right Because we have, displeased the Lord of light.

workes makes many a heauy hart,

Coldwords and Coldworks, coldwords; coldworld and althings cold Showes death drawes neer, and then a deep cold graue Such hard cold hap, may make a yoong man old Or old gray beard, become a galle flaue Well let them loose, that can ne win nor sauc The state of man, on strange hap hazard lies As one fals downe, so doth another rise.

Cold winter may bring fome Sommer daies.

If charitie, would once bespread hir raies As Phæbus showes, abroad his shining beames Or winter cold, would bring some sommer daies And rid vs soone, from all these great extreames Then shee dies not, but haplie sleeps and dreames Now waken hir, that have most powre to speake I have tane cold, and so my voice growes weake.

You whose cleer speech, doth loud as trumpet sound And may command, the world, the skies and stars And rules at beck, the massic earth so round Sets orders downe, and can make peace and wars And hath the force, to breake big iron bars Call charitie, fot loue once home againe That shee may heare, hir people poore complaine.

Warme loue may awaken chamie againe.

My breath but bores, a hole within the aire My date neer don, cals for a shrouding sheet My darke dim daies, lookes for no weather faire Mine eies can scarce, look to my stumbling seet My wounted muse, for sakes my drowping spreet My books and scroules, and all that I have wrot Hides now their heads, as I were cleane forgot. The authors breath is to cald
co do any goods

When aged yeers, showes death amid my face My words are of, sinall credit in this plite My hap and hope, is in a better place Wherefore of world, I plainly speake and write Andere I goe, discharge my conshence quite To win the wise, and loose the sonder fort That vnto quicke, nor dead yeelds good report.

Aged years thowes death it

The wife well won, waiesech thing as it ought Mistakes no terme, nor sentence wrests awrie. The fond will read, awhile but cares for nought. Yet casts on ech, mans works a frowning eie. This neither treats, of matters lowe nor hie. But finds a meane, that ech good meaning might. In all true meanes, take charitie aright.

Labor is well her flowed when wife men are

FINIS.

- - - 143 .11 12 1142 1 1 A PRAISE OF POETRIE.

Imprinted at London, by
Ar. Husfield, for William
Holme.

1595

A praise of Poetrie, some notes therof drawen out of the Apologie, the noble minded Knight, sir Phillip Sidney wrate.

Hen world was at the very woorst And vice did much abound And for offence the earth was curst Yet charitie was found.

Among the wife and woorthie fort Who ever had good chance with treble fame, by their report True vertue did advance.

The Poets and Philosophers
Stept first on stately stage
And plaid their parts with hazards great
In enery world and age.

In eury age while wits of men Could judge the good from bad Who gat the gift of toong or pen Of world great honor had.

Good Poets were in hie esteeme, When leading grew in price Their vertue and their verse did seeme A great rebuke to vice.

With blunt base people of small sence They fall now in disdaine But Sydneyes booke in their desence Doth raise them vp againe. And fets them next Divines in ranke As members meete and fit To strike the worlds blinde boldnes blanke And whet the bluntest wit.

Heere followes Histories good store That much thereof shall tell If paines may purchase thanks therefore My hope is answerd well.

Amphyon and Orpheus Poets and excellent mulitions.

A Mphyons gift and grace was great In Thebes old stories faie And beafts and birds would leave their meate To heare Orpheus plaie.

cus, and Ennius.

Livius, Androni. In Rome were three of peereles fame That florisht in their daies Which three did beare the onely name Of knowledge, skill and praise.

Dant, Bocacc, and Petrarke.

In Italy of yore did dwell Three men of spechall spreete Whose gallant stiles did sure excell Their verses were so sweete.

Marrot, Ronfart, and de Bartas.

In France three more of fame we finde Whose bookes do well declare They beautifide their starely minde With inward vertues rare.

Goore, Chaufer, and the noble earle of Surrie.

In England lived three great men Did Poetrie aduance And all they with the gift of pen Gaue glorious world a glance.

Apraise of Poetrie.

29

In Scotland finde we other twaine Were writers of good woorth Whose studies through their Poets vaine Brought many verses foorth.

Dany Lindzey

In Ireland to this present time Where learning is not mich With Poetrie in verse or rime Their language they inrich. They honor and make much of their ilmers.

In Wales the very remnant yet Of Brittaine bloud and race They honor men of speshall wit And gives a Poet grace.

In Wales they call their rimers Bardes.

Albinus long that rained heere Made verses in his youth And in his age as doth appeere With verse auancs the truth.

Albinus loued poetrie much.

Among the sauage Indians still (Who knowes no civill thing)
They honor writers of some skill
Their parents lives to sing.

The rude Indians make much of their rimers.

Among the anshent noble Danes And Saxsons long ago We read of many Poets names Whose woorthy wits did flo.

The Danes and Saxons had many poets among them.

The graue wise learned men of Greece Durst neuer shew their art Till those Philosophers presumd To plaie the Poets part:

In Greece their best philosophers at the first became poets. Thales, Empedocles, and Parmenides.

Some sang in verse, their naturall

Philosophie we finde

And in sweete songs heroicall Exprest their secret minde.

Pithagoras and Phosilides.

So morall counsels vttred were In that fame felfe sweete fort Thus Poets flourisht eury where As stories makes report.

Tarteus.

And marshall matters in those daies Were song and set aloft So some the art of warre did raise Vnto the skies full oft.

Sibillas prophesies in verse Were alwaies vttred well The oracels of Delphos to In verse would woonders tell.

the fable of the Atlantick Hand.

Solon that wrate In pollicies wife Solon plaid The Poet fundrie waies Good things were better foong than faid

Which gaind immortall praise.

Plato a divine philosopher did Houp to poetrie.

Plato tooke Solons works in hand And plaid the Poet right And fet that Atlantike Iland Full plaine before our fight.

Herodoms.

The Booke of Herodotus bore A famous title fine (Yea such as none did giue before) Of all the muses nine.

A praise of Poetric.

Domician was a Poet rare And did therein excell So many princes now there are That loueth Poetric well.

Three conquerours of mightle powre Gaue Poets such a grace That they would neuer frowne nor lowre On them in any case.

As Plutarke faith, a tyrant wept A tragedie to heare Who fawe his murthring minde thereby As in a glas full cleere.

Amid a great revolt in Rome
A woorthie Poet flood
And told of bodie and the minde
A tale that did much good.

Two Poets turnd a tyrants hart
From rigour vnto ruth
And wrought him with their wits and art
To fauour right and truth.

Nathan did faine a tale indeed To Dauid when he fell Whereon the king tooke fuch great heed He saw his follie well.

In Dauids Pfalms true miter floes
(And fongs of Sallomon)
Where great delite and pleasure groes
Are woorthie looking on.
F 2

31

Domician Vafpafians forme, as Plinic faith was an excellene poet.

Alexander, Cafar and Scipio,

Alexander Phoreus wept at a tragedy.

Menenus Agrippa a philosopher made peace among the people in an vprore.

Simonides and Pyndarius made Hiero a just king.

Nathanspake of a lambe vngraciously taken from his bosome.

Dauid and Salemon denine poets. Platoes dialog called Ion.

A dialogue that Plato made Giues Poets great renowne Brings ech rare wit to sun from shade To weare the laurell clowne.

Lelius a Romane were poets.

& Sociates both True flories old with new delite Shall fill your harts and cares For they of Poets praises write Their books good witnes beares.

James the first that was king of Scotland, and K. Iames the fixt now raigning, great poets.

If aunshent authors and great kings No credit gets herein Darke-fight fees not no flately things That doth great glory win.

The Greeke Socrates put A fops and Aristode wrate the art of poetric.

Plucke vp cleere judgement from the pit sables into verse, Of poore espreet and sence And wipe the flime from flubbred wit And looke on this defence.

captains, and Senators were poets, and fauouted heart.

Emperors, kings, That Sydney makes, a matchles worke A matter fresh and new That did long while in filence lurke And feldome came to view.

Adrian and Soshocles great Pocts.

He cals them Poets that embrace True vertue in hir kinde And do not run with rimes at bace With wanton blotted minde.

our neerer me, the patrons "s octiv, Robert ie great Frances ng of France.

All idle verse he counts but vaine Like cracks of thorns in fire ng of Cicil and Or fummer showrs of sleete or raine That turns drie dust to mire.

These rurall rymes are but the scum And froth that slies from seas Or doth from some sharpe humor come That breeds a new disease.

Cardinall Bembus and Ribiena.

In braine that beats about the skull And so brings foorth a toye (When musse or moone is at the full) Of paines or pleasing ioye.

Famous teachers and preachers, Beza and Melancton,

Like long wingd hauke, doth Poet fore Ore mountaine or hie trees And loud as cannon can he rore At ech vice that he fees.

Learned philofrophers Fracaftorius and Scaliger.

His scope as hie as reasons reach May clime in order due Not to give counsell nor to teach But to write fancies new.

Great and grod orators Pontanus and Muretus.

Of this or that as matter moones

A well disposed minde

That vice doth hate and vertue lones

And he good cause doth sinde.

And beyond all their, the hospitall of France being builded on vertue, gane poets a fingular commendation.

So ruling pen as duties bounds Be kept in cury part For when the Poet trumpet founds It must be done by art.

> Alexander kept the bookes of Homer in Darius his Iewel casket

As though a sweete consort should plaie On instruments most fine And shew their musicke cury waie With daintie notes divine. Menander the comicke poet emballadors of Macedonia and Agipt preferred the conscience of learning before kinglie fortunes.

Ech string in tune as concord were The guide of all the glee being sent for by Whose harmonie must please the eare With musicke franke and free.

> The Poets Lyra must be strung With wire of filuer found That all his verses may be sung With maidens in a round.

Augustus Cafar wrate familiar cpiftles vnto Horace, which Horace in lus life was aduanced to the tribuneship offoldiers, and when he died he left Augustus Cafar his heire.

So chaste and harmles should they be As words from preachers voice With spiced speech in ech degree Wherein good men reioice.

Not farled full of follies light That beares ne poies nor weight But flying cleere in aire like flight Whose force mounts vp an height.

And feems to pearce the cloudie skies Such poets Sidney likes Whose gentle wind makes dust arise As hie as morice pikes.

Virgill entring the colledge of poets in Rome, the rest of the poets there did more renerance to him than to when he came into the senate the fenators likewife didfo.

That lifts aloft the foldiers hart Who doth aduance the same And bends his bodie in ech part Thereby to purchase fame.

the emperor, and The sword and lance of marshall men Their Lions courage showes The poets with their wit and pen Tels where their furie flowes.

They both are knowne as soone as seene As things of great import
The one may verie far ore weene
The other in some fort.

And offreth life therefore
The poet seekes no more but praise
As poets did of yore.

Whose words strooke dead the stoutest groomes
That ever were in place
And sweeped cleane like new made broomes.
The foulcit cause or case.

As water washeth echthing white And sope might scoure with all The canker of soule worlds delite (More sharpe than bitter gall.)

So poets with plaine terms makes cleane The foulest conshence lives: And by good words from vice doth weane (Through councell that it gives.)

The childest wit and churlisht mind Lo then how poets may Both alter maners and bad kind To frame a better way.

Of heavens and the highest throne Where God himselfe doth sit Good poets still should rreat alone To showe their slowing wit. David fung the Lincke verfes to his harp and thole ebrue fongs conflitted of divers feet and vnequall numbers, formire in Langbikes running other while.

Infaphicks fivelling again in halfe a foote amiably halting.

Salomon in the gardens of Engadda framed fongs to his harpe which then was a heauenly mulicke.

Icremie wrate his funcralllamentations in Saphycks long before Simonides the Greeke poet.

As by their muse they caried were Beyond our fight or vew Into a fine and purer aire Or speshall climat new.

Where all things are as cleane as gold From furnace to the stamp So poets should this world behold And shine as cleer as lamp.

Isaias wrate facred Odes & ho. lie verses, and for mysteries of god therein, a tyrant king caused him to be sawed a funder.

That light doth give to cury cie Which doth in darknes dwell remembring the And glorie show of heavens hie To damned spreets of hell.

> Which darknes in a dungeon keeps From fight of vertues lore Where ignorance in flumber fleeps Like dunse for euermore.

The long of Sydrack and his fellowesinthe hot flame was in veife.

Sir Philip Sydney praiseth those Whose waking wits doth see The depth and ground of verse or prose And speakes with judgement free.

Moiles by some meu is thought the first deuiser of verfe, and his fister Marie deuifed the exameter, and by it to haue glorified Ichoua.

Of all the matters under fun Both fecrets hie and lowe And ouer them with pen can run As far as skill can goe.

Sift eurie word and sentence well And cast away the bran To show the kernell, crack the shell In peeces now and than.

That

That eurie one shall taste the nue Or fee where worme hath fed And shoot an arrowe at the but And drawe it to the head.

Like archer that can hit the white And win the wager straight With cunning knowledge and delite And suttle sence and slaight.

Which looks into the world fo round And fearcheth eury place To see what may be easlie found Or spoke of ech mans case.

To rime and roue in retchles fort He counted reuellrash As whip doth make a horse to snort When carter gives a lash.

So ballet makers doth with wind Stir vp a hiue of bees And of the abundance of vaine mind With words in aire he flees.

As though it were a thunder crack That neuer brings foorth raine But dailie threatens rune and wrack With ratling rumors vaine.

Vaine commedies that stirs vp vice He did condemne and hate He holds that babble of no price That doth infect a state.

Ausonius a french man and poct, schoolemaster to Gracianus the Emperor was at orator and conful of Rome ther-

Homer writes that Achilles sonne of Peleus was a fingular liricke poet, finging and plaing the noble deeds of cheeftaines.

Linus of Thebes a most ancient poet, he was the fonne of Mercury and wrate the courfe of the fun, moone, and fpheres in excellent veise.

Corrupts with words good maners still Offends both eie and eare Brings in loofe life by customs ill And takes away true feare

Of God and man, such Poets leud Were banisht and exilde Because with soule condishons shreud Their country they defilde.

Tiber us Nero the Emperor a poct, and Lucan et on a publike theater they Thewedrhe tragedie Orpheus.

Good Poets were in eury age Made of and nourisht well hus tresorer a po- They were the floures of gardens gaie That gaue the goodly smell.

> The true forewarners of great things That after did befall The ioy of godly vertuous kings And honest subjects all.

Our age and former fathers daies (Leaue Goore and Chauser out) Hath brought foorth heere but few to praise Search all our foyle about.

Adrianus, Augustus Emperor a poer and preferrer of pocurie.

Yet of all those that newly wrate In profe or verse of late Let Sydney weare (for stile of state) The garland lawreate.

Iulianus Empcperor and Caius Inlins Cafar.

His bookes makes many bookes to blush They shew such sence and wit Our dribbers shoots not woorth a rush When he the marke doth hit.

A praise of Poetrie.

39

His phrase is sisted like fine source That maketh manchet bread Sweet eury where and nothing source That slowes from Sydneyes head.

Oppianus of great pobilitie.

Sweete dewe dropt out of Sydneyes quill. As raine great moysture shoes
And from his muse there did distill.
A liquor sweete as rose.

Scaus Aurelius
Propertius one of the Dedicie.

Aquintesence, a spirit of wine Naie Necar better namde A breuage for the Gods deuine Of compounds made and framde.

Scenies a spanish knight Nerns schoolemaster.

That who focuer drinks thereon Immortall shall be made His books he left to looke vpon When we in worldly shade

Sophoeles and Pericles,

Sits mumping eury houre of daie And scarce knows where we are Our braines like bucke doth stande at baie Beset about with care.

a man of noble parentage.

Of this or that when Sydneyes books Cals vp a drowping ghost For whosoeuer thereon looks (With worldly troubles tost)

Anacreon of Theios with Pollucrates king of the Samians.

He shall finde quietnes thereby And Christian comfort great Woorth all the treasure under skie It climes to Ioues hie seat.

G 2 And

timeliaed with Antigonus.

Aratus all his life And fits among the Angels sweet Where pfalmes and himnes are fung And all base humors vnder feet Are out of fauor flung.

Lucius Ceallius, Culars play felowe.

The poets that can clime the cloudes Like thip boy to the top When sharpest stormes do shake the shroudes Sets ware to fale in shop.

Citus the poet treaforer of the Emperor Theodocius, and Apatrician.

Of heavenly things that earthly men Can scarcely understand Did not our Chausers golden pen (That beautifide this land.)

Publius and I aberius companions with Iulius Cælar.

Reach to the sunne and highest star And toucht the heavens all A poets knowledge goes so far That it to mind can call.

Arian the poet of Each wonder fince this world began Perianderking of And what was seene in skies Courth. A poet is no common man He lookes with Argoes eies.

* adullides with 1.C: OF.

Like Linx throw steele or stonic wals Inlianus the Em. No fecret scapes his fight Of future time and what befals In world by day or night.

Claudian his butionous said IC15.

He fees and fomtimes writes thereof combic loined When scornfull people scowle Arcadius E. pe- And makes of earnest words a scoffe Or gals taire speeches fowle.

Our countrie breeds vp Poets still As grasse springs from good ground For these doth flourish learned skill Where knowledge doth abound.

Looke what our elders wits did sowe Or lest behinde in heapes Our age and haruest people mowe Or with sharpe sickle reapes.

The feede of fence, faire fruit brings foorth
In feeld a thousand fold
And is in value price and woorth
More preshous than the gold.

What can be counted foule or cleane
But Poets thereon talke
Yet thousands knowes not what they meane
When they in cloud will walke.

As from the fountaine water floes (Conuaid by gushing pipe) So from the pen of Poet goes Fine words and sentence ripe.

That ech good minde may well digeft As sweete as honie sure. His termes are taken with the best If verse be neate and pure.

As riders whisking wand doth feare
The horse whereon he sits
So wrangling people eurie where
At verses year their wits.

Eschiron in hie whole militarie expedition, samiliar was Alexander.

A praise of Poetrie.

red of Adrian the Emperor.

42

Masonideshono- If any writer touch the gall In pastime be it sed Then downe coms tressels house and all Vpon the poore mans head.

> Yet wife men will good words embrace And take each thing in worth And give each word and line a grace That poets do set forth.

Ariolto liked of all good wits.

Diuine du Bartas merits p Most excellent verse he wrate So sundrie writers in our daies Haue done full well of late.

In Spensers morall fairie Queene And Daniels rosse mound If they be throwly waid and seen Much matter may be found.

Torquator Taffo and poet laurear who departed immortalitie this last Aprill 1595. whole memorie shall neuer vanish.

One Barnes that Petrarks scholler is an Italian knight May march with them in ranke A learned Templers name I mis from oblinion to Whose pen deserues great thanke.

> A number more writs well indeed They spring vp newly now As gazing world their works shall reed So shall world praise them throw.

But sure my noble Sidneies skill I neuer can forget To him my feruice and good will Shall euer dwell in der.

Oflearned lore the onely light Which blazde like lampe most cleere And as a star in moone shine night Could vnder cloud appeer.

Seemd dim and darke to dazled eies But faire and bright to those That understood the stately gise Of learned verse or prose.

Could crack the nut of nath the land shew the kernell plaine

For by his works who notes them well In world he lives againe.

The booke that doth of poetstreat In golden robes so shines It triumphes still with honor great Among the best divines.

Which booke deckt vp in trim attire Of authors wife and graue In matters of mine owne delire Great light to poetrie gaue.

And made me write of poets praise Thus so to starrie skie My Sidneies honor heere I raise As far as same can slie. Mounfiour Deucreux a yoong Bishop ar this day hung in France, accounted now the singular man in Europ for verse and posticall deuses.

Sir Phillip Sid-

My next Booke comes out shortlie: dedicated to my Honorable woorthy friende,
Master Henrie Brooke, sonne
and heireto the noble Lord Cobham.

147 CHURCHYARD (THOMAS). A Musicall Consort of Heauenly harmonie (compounded out of manie parts of Musicke) called Chvrch yards Charitie. Titles within ornamental borders.

Imprinted at London, by Ar. Hatfield, for William Holme, 1597

Small 4to, green morocco, gilt back, sides with heavy gilt borders, gilt edges, by C. Lewis. Margins of first title page restored, affecting one corner of border; border on second title and several catch-words cut into; some marginal repairs in several other

THE PRESENT COPY IS AS FOLLOWS: A.A. A. A. A. A. A. A. B. A. thus between the third LIMINARY LEAVES, INSTEAD OF SIX. The Corser, Bibliotheca Anglo-Poetica, Hazlitt, Huth, Huntington collations agree in calling for 28 leaves, A-G4. THE COLLATION OF FIRST EDITION. VERY RARE. AN APPARENTLY UNIQUE COPY, CONTAINING TEN PRE

[Continued on page 56]

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, LOS ANGELES THE UNIVERSITY LIBRARY - date stamped below APR 2 5 1961 MAY 2 3 1961 JULES'DEM JAN 4 1965 JAN 25 1$65 A.M. 7 8 9 10 11 12 1 2 3 4 5 6

THE LIBRARY
UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA
LOS ANGELES

UC SOUTHERN REGIONAL LIBRARY FACILITY

